

Prioritization server

CI server

Commit is received

Request a status update

Tests are executed in the given order

POST /jobs/job_id/result [body: test results]

Commit is pulled from repository

Commit is being analysed and the order is being determined

Analysis is complete, return the order

Results are saved to the database, background processing is performed to improve performance on next run